Architecture

The Danish Arts Foundation works to foster the international cultural development and the promotion of Danish architecture abroad.

The Danish Arts Foundation's Committee for Architecture runs a number of international and national funding programs. The programs are intended for architects, studios, and institutions with a relation to the Danish architecture scene.

Funding

Name: Project Funding

Who may apply: Architects, studios and institutions with a strong relation to the Danish architecture scene can apply. If applying as a cross-disciplinary group, the application should come from the architect.

Purpose of the program: With the project-funding program The Committee for Architecture wish to encourage surprising and thought-provoking projects, with an ambition to push the boundaries of the field of architecture. Projects that exhibit a critical and ethical awareness about the role, which architecture plays in relation to its surroundings. Projects may range from exhibitions, art installations, books, films, festivals, events, seminars and much more.

Deadline: Two annual deadlines (February and September)

Residencies

Name: Can Lis – Jørn Utzon's House

Who may apply: Danish architects, cross-disciplinary groups and other professionals with a relation to the Danish architecture scene may apply.

Purpose of the program: A residency program at Can Lis on Mallorca that provides the possibility for architects and cross-disciplinary groups to develop their work in the inspiring surroundings of Utzon's architecture and former private home. The Danish Arts Foundation offers up to 12 residency periods a year at either 13 or 26 days.

Deadline: One annual deadline (September)

Travel grants

Who may apply: Architects, cross-disciplinary groups and other professionals with a relation to the Danish architecture scene may apply.

Purpose of the program: The purpose of the program is to provide possibilities for groups and individuals that wish to conduct research on relevant issues within the field of architecture, by seeking out new knowledge, inspiration and partnerships abroad or in Denmark. We encourage applicants to travel environmentally responsible.

Deadline: Two annual deadlines (February and September).

Crafts and Design

The Danish Arts Foundation's Committee for Craft and Design runs a number of both national and international funding programs to support, promote and raise the profile of Danish crafts and design. Our funding programs are intended for designers, craftspeople, museums, galleries, design organizations and international curators who promote Danish and international crafts and design in Denmark and Danish crafts and design internationally.

Funding

Name of program: Craft and design projects in Denmark and abroad

Who may apply:

- Professionals with close ties to Danish craft and design: Craft makers, designers, curators, writers, communication experts, museums, galleries and others with an interest in developing and promoting Danish craft and design.
- International exhibition venues and professionals developing and promoting Danish craft and design abroad.

Purpose of the program: The Danish Arts Foundation's Committee for Crafts and Design Project Funding wishes to promote the visibility of Danish contemporary crafts and design on the international scene by supporting e.g.:

- a) The creation of exhibitions, shows and fairs – including transportation and insurance of exhibited work
- b) Presentation and all forms of communication (oral, written, visual, digital, and print) of the work of Danish craft makers and designers to appropriate audiences
- c) Danish craft makers and designers' travel and accommodation costs for specific exhibitions and projects abroad
- d) Setting up business and international collaboration on the production of new types of Danish products which help establish the specific identity and profile of craft and design
- e) Production of content for different media: reviews, articles, communication of academic research projects aiming to increase the visibility of Danish contemporary crafts and design on the international scene
- f) Furthermore, we provide travel grants and residency programs aiming to provide the possibilities for craft makers and designers who wish to go abroad and get inspiration, make collaborations, participate in seminars and conferences, as well as strengthen networking and dialogue between the Danish and international crafts and design scene

Please note:

Established exhibition venues, museums and galleries are encouraged to provide proper remuneration for craftspeople and designers for their work before, during and after exhibitions. For example for participating in meetings, setting up and taking down exhibitions and for participation within PR and dissemination/communication. Funding to cover these set-up costs should be applied for along with the funding application for the exhibition.

Danish craft makers and designers can apply for the actual production of new works.

Deadline: Two annual deadlines

Literature

The Danish Arts Foundation's Committee for Literary Project Funding works to promote Danish literature at home and abroad and helps facilitate literary exchange projects between Denmark and other countries. We work to support, promote and raise the profile of Danish literature internationally by coordinating the Danish presence at international literary and cultural events and projects abroad.

We organize the Danish Arts Foundation's stands at the most important international book fairs, visiting and research programs for international translators, publishers, journalists and promoters.

Funding

Name of program: Fund for Danish Literature Abroad and Foreign Literature in Denmark

Who may apply: You may apply for subsidies from this fund for translations to and from Danish, sample translations, mentor support for translators, events for authors and network support for translators, travel grants for translators and research travel for publishers, etc.

Deadlines: Two annual deadlines

Name of program: Fund for Danish and Foreign Literature for Children and Young Adults

Who may apply: You may apply for subsidies from this fund for production of Danish books for children and young adults, for translations to and from Danish, literary events, literary festivals, support for development of digital stories for children and young adults, for translations, travel and research, and other literary projects for children and young adults.

Deadlines: Two annual deadlines

Name of program: Nordic Translation Fund – Inter-Nordic Translations

Who may apply: The fund is open to Nordic publishers wishing to publish a work translated from Danish to a Nordic language. Support for translations into Danish must be sought from within the country in which the respective work was originally published. The funds for Nordic translations are distributed on behalf of Nordic Culture Point's Culture and Art Programme under the Nordic Council of Ministers.

Deadlines: Two annual deadlines

Purpose of the programs:

(a) Translations and sample translations:

Support is provided to foreign publishing houses and theatres that publish works translated from Danish. Support is provided for translation costs of fiction and non-fiction works of general cultural interest translated by professionals. It is also possible for foreign translators, theatres and publishers to apply for support to finance sample translations of Danish literature.

(b) Production:

Publishers may apply for production support for especially expensive works and illustrated works.

(c) Events:

Subsidies for literary events and promotion of Danish literature abroad. Applications for subsidies are accepted from foreign publishers, diplomatic representations abroad, cultural institutions and others who wish to promote and increase knowledge about Danish literature outside Denmark. Support may also be provided to defray costs in connection with Danish authors' participation in literary festivals, readings and publication events abroad. Support may be provided to foreign authors travelling to Denmark on the same basis.

(d) Network:

Network support is provided to activities in local networks of translators from Danish. The networks must strengthen translators' access to knowledge about Danish language and literature, and at the same time ensure that there are frameworks for new, promising translators.

(e) Research:

Support may be provided to foreign publishers, heads of festivals and the like who wish to acquire an insight into contemporary Danish literature and visit Danish publishers, festivals etc., to strengthen networks and dialogue between the Danish and international literary partners. In addition travel grants can also be awarded translators of Danish literature for research purposes (meetings, residencies etc.).

(f) Development of digital stories (only in the fund for children and young adults)

Support for development of digital stories for children and young adults.

Music

We work to support, promote and raise the profile of Danish music internationally by coordinating the Danish presence at international music projects and cultural events abroad. Collaborative agreement between Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry for Culture

The Danish Ministry of Culture and the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs support international cultural collaboration through two overarching funding schemes: 1) the Strategic Framework for Denmark's International Cultural Collaboration, and 2) the Project and Development funding scheme. The purpose of the funding schemes is to support specific cultural activities abroad between Danish and foreign actors.

Funding

Name of program: Capacity-building through International Collaboration

Who may apply: Professional Danish cultural operators (institutions or organizations) can apply for funding of projects in collaboration with international partners.

Purpose of the program: The purpose of the program is to support the Ministry of Culture and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs' strategic framework for Denmark's international cultural collaboration. The funding scheme will support the inter-disciplinary capacity-building within the strategy's themes in the cultural sector. This occurs through funding of capacity-building processes, networks as well as development and execution of international conferences, workshops, knowledge-sharing courses and best-practices.

Projects must be anchored and managed by professional cultural operators in dialogue with the Agency for Culture and Palaces, as well as relevant Danish missions, primarily in geographical priority areas in the US, Asia, nearby European countries and the Nordic countries.

There will be focused on supporting bigger cultural projects with wide stakeholder communities.

Deadline: Two annual deadlines

Name of program: Strategic Development Projects under the Strategic Framework 2023-2024

Who may apply: Professional Danish cultural operators (institutions or organizations) can apply for funding of projects in collaboration with international partners. Danish missions and the Danish Cultural Institute cannot apply for project management nor holding of own expenses regarding traveling and accommodation relating to projects.

Purpose of the program: The purpose of the funding scheme is to support bigger strategic development projects situated in the Strategic Framework's three themes. The applied project must be in line with one or more of the three below-mentioned focus areas:

- In regard to the theme Sustainability and the green transition, by promoting the development and implementation of specific value communication and supporting collaboration projects, which demonstrates culture's potential in relation to the green transition or inclusion and the social aspects of sustainability, e.g. in reference to architecture, institutions and live and performing arts.
- In regard to the theme Technology and the democratic dialogue, by promoting culture's ability to create safe/open spaces in a complex technologized world through funding of partnerships and initiatives, which focus on developing and documenting the safe spaces of culture in specific projects. The initiatives can be physical, digital or a hybrid, but they must actively relate to the possibilities and restrictions of technology in relation to the democratic space.
- In regard to the theme Urban and rural areas, by promoting and supporting inter-disciplinary cultural projects in urban and rural areas, which includes civil society and its resources. Among these, specific cultural projects regarding communities and involvement with children and youth.

Deadline: Two annual deadlines

Name of program: Project and Development Funding for International Cultural Collaboration

Who may apply: The funding scheme is aimed at a broad range of actors who wish to engage in international cultural collaboration within the purview of the Danish Ministry of Culture. Danish participants can apply in collaboration with local Danish missions and/or a local division of the Danish Cultural Institute. Applications are to be submitted by the Danish missions and/or local divisions of cultural institutes.

Purpose of the program: The purpose of the funding scheme is to support collaboration projects for Danish art and culture abroad. The funding scheme is anchored in the Collaboration Agreement between the Danish Ministry of Culture and the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs on Denmark's international cultural collaboration, which has the following purposes:

- To promote Denmark's cultural exports abroad

- To promote intercultural dialogue between Danish and foreign actors
- To promote the marketing of Denmark as a country
- To promote innovation in Danish art and culture through international collaboration

Deadline: Two annual deadlines
